

RECONSTRUCTED
LANDSCAPE
BY THEA VELLA

Press Release

Born in 1992, Thea lives and works in Malta. In her art practice Thea focuses on deconstructing and Reconstructing details, memories and the landscape around her. In 2013 Thea graduated in BA Fine Arts at Mcast, later acquiring a diploma in Marketing at the University of Malta. 2015, Thea furthered her studies and practices doing a course in Fashion Design at Polimoda Florence.

'Reconstructed Landscapes' raises awareness of our surroundings. Emerging artist, Thea Vella based in Malta, has immersed herself in a discovery of how her surroundings connect and disconnect each space through patchwork; using texture, colors, and tones.

Basing herself out of photographic memory and imagination she has fragmented and recreated a series of soft, and almost floating-like landscapes, which channel a whole new perspective on her surroundings. Throughout the entire process, she has come to realize and appreciate the time she has allowed herself to observe these landscapes, identify the part which resonates with her, making her more at one with her surroundings, which consequently has led to self-growth and understanding.

Through this body of work, Thea invites us to reimagine the landscape we live in, be more aware of what surrounds us and construct our own interpretation.

The background of the poster is an abstract artwork. It features a light, off-white or cream-colored upper section with some faint, wispy textures. Below this, there's a horizontal band of layered, torn paper or fabric in shades of yellow, tan, and light brown. At the bottom, there are more textured, layered elements in darker shades of brown and black, suggesting a landscape or a reconstructed scene. The overall effect is one of depth and texture, consistent with the title 'Reconstructed Landscape'.
